COUNCIL ACTS TO SAVE NR STATION

Promises That Purchasers Will Not Have to Buy Site

IMPORTANCE RECOGNIZED

Discontinuance Would Be Felt by Ship Men

The city commission yesterday promised representatives of the naval radio division that the purchaser of the station here would not be expected to also buy the land on which the station is situated.

Roy Stump, general manager, Chamber of Commerce, introduced B. F. West, assistant district commercial superintendent, and H. M. Streble, Stump and West representing the radio station.

Importance Stressed

The importance of the station to Port Arthur was stressed by Stump, who said this was especially true in time of storm, frequently all wire being down and the only means of communication being through radio.

He also explained that the discontinuance of the station would be felt in shipping circles as upward of 20 ships messages a day are handled here.

"Should the station be closed ships in sea would be forced to send their messages to another station and then have them relayed to Port Arthur," he said.

In conclusion Stump stated that he would like for the commission to indicate its definite or indefinite assurance as to whether continuance of the present easement held by the government could be secured for purchasers of the station.

Stump was given a concurrent sentence of five years on each of sixteen counts. In addition he was fined $1,000. Stewart also must pay the cost of the case, estimated at $10,000.

Stewart was found guilty in federal court. Farmers charged they had lost $80,000,000 through investments in Stewart land projects.

It was learned authoritative today that Great Britain and France have now come forward and agreed that American oil companies shall share in the workings of the Mosul district, where the British hold a majority.

EX DESPAIR IN IRELAND

Death of St. Patrick's Day Chaos

Now will St. Patrick's Day, 1923, be the bloodiest Free State date?

Irishmen want their freedom and to fight it out themselves is the word—disorder—utter.

MR. MELTON BRONNER

IRISH Staff Correspondent

DUBLIN, March 13.—Boom!

It's the blast of high explosives.

A few minutes later a congenial official enters the office of the Free

State cabinet minister with whom I was conversing.

"Maybe you heard the explosion,

Mr. T?" he says. "I just wanted to tell you that they have blown up Paddy

Mahon's printing works."

One's first impression after this beginning of a sunny day is that tragic

Dublin is still tragic, but "tragic" would not accurately describe the estate of the new Free State today.

Two Sides to Picture

The situation is two-sided:

Groups of pretty, well-dressed young women shopping in fashionable

Grafton street; gaunt, tattered women

walking a block on Suffolk street, begging a penny.

Young squires in from the country on perfectly groomed horses and themselves in perfectly tailored clothes; newsboys walking the ice-cold pavements in bare feet.

A handsome new department store opening its doors on wide O'Connell street; a stone's throw away a whole block of artillery-smashed and fire-twisted wreckage of hotels and business houses.

A committee meeting to hear reports of damage wrought to farmhouses by torch pried by Irregulars;

another commission meeting to consider how to improve Ireland's canal system.

Strenuous suppression of British newspapers which print Irregular propaganda; walls of public buildings defaced by defiant sentences painted there at night by daring bands of young women opposed to the Irish

Free State.

People complaining about the high cost of bread; others about how dear vegetables are.

Employment exchanges crowded with men and women seeking jobs;

fashionable hotels and restaurants crowded with men and women drinking tea and eating fancy cakes.

Despair Takes Hold

It seems a mad world, but in essence it is the same as New York or

Cleveland or Los Angeles or any other city. There are the same contrasts of rich and poor, of the comfortable and the uncomfortable, the law-abiding and the lawless, of good and evil.

Still there is in Dublin, and in much of southern Ireland as well, something like black despair—except in the cabinet; where optimism rules.

People are wondering whether the country will ever settle down to the peace and quiet they all want so eagerly.

Every day they read in their papers the same tragic list of events;

a fine country house has been burned,

a farmer has lost his crops by the torch, a shopkeeper has been shot while resisting armed bands, a railway train out of Cork has been destroyed by Irregulars.

There is probably not a person in the Free State who hasn't had a kinman affected by this kind of warfare.

But pull long faces? Not the Irish!

Everybody is trying to "carry on,"

as usual. But there is a slowing down everywhere.

A good indication of general conditions is the report of the Dublin United Tramway company.

For the past just ended it showed a deficit. Bad business, unemployment and the fighting of last June account for this.

Tomorrow: The Free State's cam-battle against the Irregulars.

PT. ARTHUR BOY HIGHLY HONORED

Ernest Polansky, Hi '12, Albuquerque Dist. Attorney

Ernest Polansky, formerly of this city and a graduate of the Port Arthur high school in 1912, was recently appointed assistant district attorney at Albuquerque, N. M.

The following extract from the Albuquerque Morning Journal will be of interest to his friends here:

"Ernest Polansky, well known young attorney, was appointed to the post of assistant district attorney yesterday afternoon. District Attorney Ernest B. Garcia made the appointment following the acceptance of the resignation of Thomas J. Mahry.

"He will serve with Garcia for the remaining two years of the latter's term of office."

While Mr. Polansky's home was in Smithville, he lived here with his sister, Mrs. T. R. Monroe, of 1535 Fifth street, and attended school until he graduated in 1912. The following fall he entered Texas University to take a four-year course in law. Immediately after his graduation he went overseas with the A. E. F., and returned six months after the Armistice was signed.

refinery on the Texarkana-Crosby tract. In connection with this information it was predicted this afternoon that the Kansas City Southern is contemplating a complete belt from the main line through the Atlantic site and a connection between this site and the Humphrey Company site at Smithville.

K. C. S. TO SPOT TO HUMPHREY

Paul Gage already has been assured that the K. C. S. would construct a spur to the Humphrey plant, immediately north of the Atlantic site. It is understood that plans are now underway to build a spur from the K. C. S. main line on to the Atlantic site. The rail connection between the Atlantic and Humphrey plant looks inevitable on paper.

This would give the K. C. S. a direct look with northern and southern outlets and inlets to either plant.

Tested Recipes For The Housewife

SALADS

In the spring the appetite is capricious. Nature is telling us we need a tonic. How can we get it more invitingly than in salads—green, crisp vegetables, fruit acids and the oil digestion needs.

At least twice daily they should be served—for dinner, lettuce, romaine, chicory, endive or watercress, with oil, vinegar or lemon juice and seasonings—for luncheon or supper, fruit, or mayonnaise alone, plus bread, perhaps cream cheese, and a cup of coffee, in king a dessert and salad combination.

Or one may offer cold meat cut into thin pieces—not more than an inch long, cold-cooked vegetables and well-assembled French dressing, then forced onions and garlic—just enough to give the right flavor.

One of the best salads consists of sliced tomatoes, sliced young onions and French dressing, with tiny pieces of pickled onions.

To the best potato salad the potatoes should be cooked in their jackets and cooled before peeling. Then they should be thinly sliced and mixed with very thinly sliced onions, and well seasoned with salt, pepper and enough oil to make each piece of potato shine. Cool, and in serving, add a little more oil, vinegar and chopped parsley. Lettuce or some green salad plant adds to attractiveness.

Hard-boiled eggs, coated dressing and watercress make an attractive main luncheon dish.

For dandelion salad, dig the green when only an inch shows above the ground—take up the white, green-tipped stalks. Thoroughly wash, dry and serve with hard-boiled eggs and oil, vinegar, salt and pepper.

If one likes served sandwich and some is left, mix it with oil, vinegar, salt and pepper and mold it in cups or small molds. Turn onto slices of cold ham or tongue and garnish with any green salad plant.

GINGER ALE SALAD

Soak a tablespoonful of gelatin in one-fourth cup of cold water 15 minutes, add two tablespoons of sugar, one-eighth teaspoon of salt, a few grains of essence and one-fourth cup of boiling water, and stir until dissolved if necessary, placing over hot water. Then add a tablespoon of lemon juice and a cup of ginger ale. Place the dish in a pan of cold water and as it (the liquid) begins to stiffen, fold in two cups of mixed fruit.

Turn into a mold, or individual molds and chill.

Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise to which has been added horseradish.

In place of the gelatin, which has to be soaked and dissolved, with the addition of lemon juice and sugar, use any of the premixed lemon gelatin mixtures.

A good combination of fruit is orange, apple, canned pineapples, cherries, or, in season, raspberries, strawberries, bananas and marshmallows.

A tablespoon of preserved ginger, cut into small pieces, is good. The dish may be served as salad and dessert.

DESSERT

What to have for dessert is one of the questions a housekeeper has to answer daily.

If the meal has been heavy, dessert should be light.

If fish has been served, fruit is acceptable.

Never serve a custard or very soft, smooth dessert when the meat or fish has been boiled.

Prepared gelatin puddings are a great convenience. The lemon flavor is a good foundation for a snow pudding. Soak tapioca, cornmeal and farina are excellent for puddings, combined with apples, canned fruit and the dried sweet fruits, like figs, prunes and dates. Fritters are favorites with most people, and in cold weather, griddle cakes or waffles.

The commonest complaint against cause stomach difficulty, but too often pie and steamed puddings is that they are the reason that we eat them after a very sufficient meal.

CODFISH BALLS

Put two cups of raw potatoes, cut into large pieces, and a cup of salt codfish, combined into small bits, in a kettle, cover them with boiling water and cook until the potatoes are soft.

Turn the water off, thoroughly mix the potatoes and fish, and add two tablespoons of butter, an eighth teaspoon of pepper and an egg, slightly beaten.

Beat thoroughly and, if at all moist, place in a warm place, and allow it to stand until evaporated.

Drop by spoonfuls into deep fat, hot enough to brown a piece of bread in four counts.

Drain on paper and serve very hot.

SHAMROCK ROLLS

Pour a cup of scalded milk over two tablespoons of sugar and a half teaspoon of salt, and when it is lukewarm, add a half cake of yeast soaked in two tablespoons of warm water, and a cup of flour.

Stir until smooth, cover, let stand in a warm place until the batter is full of bubbles, adding then two tablespoons of melted butter, two slightly beaten eggs, and two more cups of flour.

Stir with a knife until a dough is formed stiff enough to take onto a board and knead, adding more flour if necessary.

Knead until dough is smooth and free from lumps, return to bowl and let rise until it has doubled in bulk.

Then take onto board; gain and divide into 18 pieces, divide each piece into three equal parts, and shape these into smooth round balls. Place three of these balls in each muffin tin and let rise until light.

Bake for 20 minutes in a quick oven, brush over with melted butter, and bake one or two minutes longer.

APPLE FRITTERS

Mix of 1 cup of flour, a quarter teaspoon of salt, and a teaspoon of baking powder. Then slowly add a well-beaten egg and two-thirds of a cup of milk, until a smooth batter is made.

Next add two apples, pared, cored and cut into small pieces, and drop the mixture from a tablespoon, having all the sponges will hold, into hot fat.

Fry four minutes and drain on soft paper.

Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

The fritters should be golden brown and thoroughly cooked in the center. It is best to try one, and see if it is cooked, before removing the others from the fat.

FLOUNDER SHRIMP SAUCE

To prepare steamed fillets of flounder or sole, with shrimp sauce, you will need:

Six fillets, a can of shrimps, or a pint of the same shellfish, fresh, three tablespoons each of butter and flour, a cup of fish stock, made by cooking fish bones in water, half a cup of cream or ton milk, half a teaspoon of salt, a teaspoon and a half of paprika, a tablespoon each of minced onion and lemon juice and three pieces of toast, cut into pointed triangles.

Place fillets on a pan, season with salt and pepper and steam 10 minutes, or longer, if the fish will not flake easily.

Melt butter, add onion, and cook three minutes without browning, add flour, set over fire and fish stock.

Cook until smooth and thick, stirring constantly, then add cream and shrimp and heat to boiling point. Add lemon juice and more seasoning if necessary. Place fish fillets on plates.

YOU AND I

HARMON

Do you remember the famous old "The Face on the Barroom Floor"? Hugh Antoine d'Arcy, its author, is given a banquet by actors in New York, on his eightieth birthday.

d'Arcy wrote this rough-hewn story to induce bartenders to be more to aged men who had seen better days. In other words, hobo bars. He did not dream that his poem would become a powerful piece of propaganda in the prohibition movement.

d'Arcy was a dynamic influence in his generation. There should be a monument to him, also to the author of "Ten Nights in a Barroom." Both are important historical characters.

MYSTERY

Scientists, spurred by the discovery of King Tut's tomb, will dig into ruins in Yucatan to learn more about the Mayas, believed to have had the oldest civilization on the American continent.

The most important discovery that could come from this scientific expedition would be an explanation of how the Mayas happened to have many of the same symbols as the ancient Egyptians carved on their temples and tombs. One must have visited the other. Which?

RIDICULE

Chesterton, English writer, ridicules our prohibition as "that curious colonial experiment across on the other side."

Chesterton, who has mental hypocrisy, asks why a nation which permits negroes to be lynched and burnt alive "has any right to set itself up as an example of morality" for the rest of the world.

The answer to this is that the average American doesn't care whether the rest of the world drinks or not, and knows it's none of his business. But get this, Chesterton: Prohibition in America, not as a moral question, but as an economic one, simple matter of efficiency. Wet England will eventually have prohibition, or be unable to compete in foreign trade with dry America. Liquor lowers efficiency.

BOOM

The railroads recently have been handling a fourth more cars of freight than in the corresponding weeks of 1919, during the big post-war boom.

Compared with four years ago, industry is in a period of greater activity but smaller profits.

COAL

A shortage of 40,000 to 60,000 coal cars is being announced constantly by the railroads. If there were more cars than needed, the price of coal would tumble, for America has a surplus of mines all eager to operate to capacity. Plenty of coal shortage of transportation: that's the situation.

Back of the coal shortage is a shortage of motive power. About a fourth of the locomotives owned by the railroads are laid up for repair. Emphasizes that transportation is our leading problem.

RHUR

French government believes German resistance will be broken by the first of May.

Maintaining its minister of war, Maginot, informs the French cabinet that troops in the Ruhr and Rhineland must be doubled for at least a month.

The French venture in German territory will sicken down to the simple business proposition, whether or not it is financially profitable.

Tom Sims Says

It might help if we worried less about what we are after here and more about what we are hereafter.

One spring sign is "Eskimo pie."

America's birth rate is declining. We have too many people who think we have too many people.

The biggest bar we know is a bootlegger claiming his stuff came out of King Tut's tomb.

Another spring sign is "Onion Sets for Sale."

All of these old clothes collected by the Salvation Army should be sent to the bathing beaches.

And another spring sign is "Fresh Paint."

One day Florida fish failed to bite for Harding, perhaps because they didn't know who he was.

Still another spring sign is "Use Blank's Chill Tonic."

Minnesota farmers are demanding a fixed wheat price because present prices go against the grain.

Distances at sea are deceptive. A man may think he is all at sea over distances when he isn't.

And still another spring sign is "Don't smoke more than having a job & still be working in a laundry room every day to wash day."

Another spring sign is "Use Bertone's Braley."

CARBON BLACK DEFEATED

Conservationists of natural resources won a victory by a narrow margin in the lower house of the Texas legislature when that body, by a vote of 53 to 52, refused to send the bill to engrossment. It had been amended until it had been shorn of many of its dangerous features by the opponents of the bill before it went down in defeat, on a vote to engross.

Conservationists asserted all along that the measure which authorized the manufacture of carbon black in the Bethany Gas Field, Panola county, East Texas, was a menace to the gas resources of the state in that it would waste the available supply of natural gas which all authorities insist should be kept for domestic and industrial purposes or uses.

Texas became an oil and gas producing state almost a quarter of a century ago when the Navarro field was brought in. The petroleum and gas industry has grown by leaps and bounds until today Texas is third on the list as a producer of petroleum and has many of the largest gas fields in America.

During all the years, at least since the coming of the oil and gas department of the state railroad commission, manufacture of carbon black was frowned upon by the commission and never a permit for its manufacture issued while Allison Mayfield was in the land of the living and chairman of the commission.

J. C. Hassell was the head of this department until he tendered his resignation in the month of January. After the death of Allison Mayfield, Mr. Hassell, representing parties wishing to engage in the manufacture of carbon black, filed an application with the commission for a permit to establish a carbon black plant in the Eastland field, for the manufacture of carbon black from the waste which comes from the coking head plants. This permit was issued by commissioners Gilmore and Earl B. Mayfield. This before the governor had named a successor to the late Allison Mayfield.

Senator J. C. Strong of Panola county is responsible for the carbon black bill which was introduced in the senate prior to the death of Allison Mayfield. It was introduced as a local bill, and it remained in committee twenty-one days before the conservationists made the discovery that it authorized the establishment of carbon black plants in the Bethany Field on the Louisiana border.

There are two pipe lines through which gas is piped from the Bethany fields to Marshall and Texarkana and Shreveport. Before the conservationists had come out of their trance, the senate had passed the Strong bill by a vote of 21 to 4, and it was beyond the reach of the shafts or arguments of the conservationists.

Representative W. S. Crawford introduced the bill in the house. There was a favorable majority and a minority report, and the carbon black people had as their chief spokesman and champion one of the most popular women in the political and newspaper circles of Texas, and one who enjoys a wide acquaintance in administration and legislative circles.

She appeared as the authorized voice of the poor farmers of Panola county, she said, who are the owners of gas lands and needed the money, and who are "at the mercy of the big companies which control the gas fields of the state and the pipe lines."

In addition to this, a noted evangelist, a son of East Texas, circled the members of the house imploring and advising them to vote for the carbon black bill and give the poor people who owned land in the gas territory an opportunity to sell or lease their possessions.

It was a battle thenceforth. It was shown by the conservationists that it was the policy of the nation and state to carefully guard and conserve the natural gas supply of America, and that carbon black manufacture by the burning of natural gas was looked upon as a menace by the authorities on conservation everywhere.

There was no burning of red fire. There was no music by brass bands. Champions of the Strong-Carpenter bill "laid low and said nothing." They intimated that the issuance of a carbon black permit by the railroad commission gave them more than they had asked for in the Strong-Carpenter bill.

The conservatives did not sleep on their rights. They knew that something was going to happen. It did happen Thursday night. There was a fierce rally of the opposing forces, talking and clashing all along the battle front, and finally the roll was called and carbon black went to its defeat by a majority of one. Conservatism had won, but it was a close shave, and the closest vote on any important measure since the organization of the 38th legislature.

There are two new railroad commissioners. Commissioner Nahors comes from East Texas; Commissioner Spawson was born in Tarrant county and came to the commission from the state university. There are applications pending for the issuance of permit for the manufacture of carbon black.

Those who are asking for the permit say that they wish to make carbon black from the wastage or residue after the gas line has been extracted from natural gas. Now all the friends of conservation in Texas and elsewhere are asking this question, "What is to be the policy of the railroad commission, as recently organized, toward carbon black manufacture in the gas and oil fields of Texas?"

Missouri cotton acreage is predicted as the "heaviest ever planted," by the man who edits the bulletin issued by the United States bureau of economics. In recent years a cotton belt has been extended from the heart of Texas across the states of New Mexico and Arizona and on to the imperial valley of California. To quote from the sacred writings of Commissioner George B. Terrell, "Don't go hog wild on cotton."

Senator John Davis introduced a bill in the upper house of the Texas legislature requiring railroads to give passes to all citizens if given to one. Let the people rule.

Representative Lee Satterwhite hails from the Panhandle. He submitted the bill seeking to equalize taxation for state purposes among individual counties. It is dead now. There are individual counties which prefer the old methods of rendition of property values. Some of the individual counties place $2.00 in the state treasury and then take out $3.00. Grand old world.

A Texas lawmaker introduced an anti-cigarette bill; a house committee made an adverse report, and then the legislative undertaker came along and shot the corpse to the place where dead bills go. Texans are smokers; many Texans are chewers. They know what they want, when they want it, and how they want it.

Texas casualty companies will have to come under the terms of the Robertson compulsory investment law if a bill introduced in the senate wins the approval of the lawmakers of both houses. This bill requires casualty companies to invest 75 percent of their Texas reserve in Texas securities or pay a high tax on their gross premiums. It applies to all lines of casualty insurance. Its author says if the Robertson bill is good for one it should be good for all.

Senator Thomas of Bell would electrocute convicted criminals instead of hanging them. Isn't it better to be roped than to be incinerated?

LETTER FROM MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON TO MRS.
JOHN ALDEN PREScott

MY DEAR MRS. PRESCOTT:

I expect you were quite surprised when your son announced to you that he was going to marry my daughter, as was I when Leslie came back from Albany and said that she was going to wed your son.

After all, my dear Mrs. Prescott, our children choose their own partners and companions in life and live their own lives, but I never have been able to forget my dear Leslie.

I would have lost very much for your daughter—Leslie. I believe it is her name—that have made me little visit. It would seem to me at least very important that we should have become acquainted before the wedding, I presume, however, that I am not used to modern ways and I know, especially as I have had various accounts of your preparations for the momentous event sent to me by a young friend who is visiting my town, that Miss Leslie would have no time to visit an old woman like me even if she had the inclination, in the short interval that remains between her girlhood and her entrance into married life.

Bring Out Old Family Jewels and You're in The Van of 1923 Style

VANITY must be served. And in all sorts of novel and deceiving fashions. The latest creations are ornate designs in costume jewelry that are being shown in jewelry shops. There is a fascination about things found in these shops. The name "jewelry shop" does not half tell the story of the hundreds of interesting articles that such shops contain.

The revival of mid-Victorian styles for milady calls, of course, for appropriate jewelry, and the big brooches, quaint lockets are much in demand.

Basque dresses seem incomplete with a brooch breastpin and these are supplanting the long-favored barpin. Much filigree work and immense amethysts, sapphires and emeralds are among the antique brooches most sought.

The higher round neck frock has shortened the long string of beads, and fashionable folk are having their strings of rare stones cut into throat strands. One woman recently brought to a Port Arthur jeweler a long string of jade beads and had it restrung into three short neck chains—one for each of her three granddaughters.

The craze for the distinctly odd necklace has evidently given place to the string of beads. Aans jazuzzi beads of graduated size are popular. Shower earrings are having a craze, and are seen frequently in the laps and number. All types of pearl jewelry are popular. It is worth noting that the never articles labeled costume jewelry followed the old-fashioned ideas of cutting such as were prominent in 1860. This, of course, is the signal to bring out the old family pieces that have long rested in out-of-way places, and appear in the "real" old-fashioned sets rather than affect the imitation—provided one is so fortunate as to own them.

"Do Not Go, My Love," by Hageman, was a charming contribution to the program by Miss Edna Sanders, Harriett Ward's "Boat Song" as sung by Mrs. E. Able, Mrs. Howard Smith, and Miss Ethel King proved one of the most enjoyable numbers for the afternoon; as did Mrs. Eugene H. McGuire's rendition of Rachmanoff's "In the Silence of Night," which was enthusiastically received by the club.

Both of Novin's compositions, "Tasse," and "Before the Day," played by Mrs. M. J. Painter and Schumann's "First Movement in G Major Sonata," as given by Mrs. T. J. Twomey, showed brilliant technique and clearness of execution.

The concluding number on the pro-

Several musical selections were rendered during the evening by Miss Margaret Martin, steel guitar; Florence Stokes, banjo mandolin; and Maxine Kuhlman, mandolin. Refreshments of hot chocolate and cake were served.

MISS FRANCES CARTER of 819 Proctor street spent a pleasant weekend in Beaumont as the guest of her cousins, Miss Ethel Carter and Mrs. B. S. Stanley. While in Beaumont on Friday evening Miss Carter attended the play, "Microcosm of Love," which was presented at the high school auditorium by the B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church of that city.

An attractive hospitality of the St. Patrick season was given on Saturday evening as a surprise to Miss Leonora Latimer by her mother, Mrs. Kate Latimer, and sister, Miss Margaret Latimer, at the Latimer home, 2701 Lake Shore drive.

The home was in beautiful adornment in keeping with the chosen theme, green streamers and shamrocks filling wall spaces and suspended about the rooms given over to the hospitality. In the dining room the table was especially attractive, a lovely birthday cake in the form of a shamrock, clustered around which were dainty green shamrocks designating Miss Latimer's years, forming the central decoration of the table. Pretty green mint baskets held the mint, and shamrocks and St. Patrick pipes were presented the guests as souvenirs.

For diversion the guests enjoyed the fascinating game of five hundred during the evening and for success the prizes for high score fell to Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Liddell and low score favors were presented to Mrs. Swan Falkenberg and C. E. Nelson.

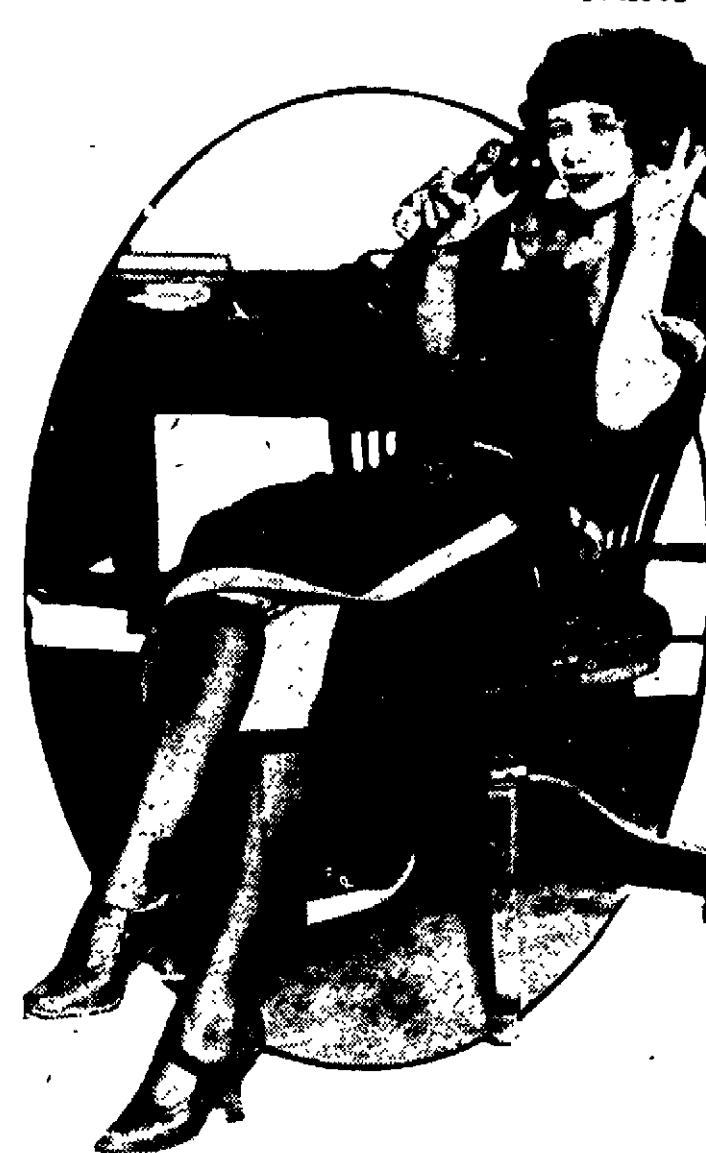

Pun was served during the games, at the close of which a lovely salad and ice course, cleverly featuring the St. Patrick theme, was offered.

The personnel of this charming affair in addition to Miss Leonora Latimer included Misses Reba Holmes, Olive Brown, Swan Falkenberg, Addie Dismukes, and Margaret Latimer; Messrs. J. W. Wack, Clinton Dan Spence, Fred Borden, C. B. Nelson, Reagan Latimer, and Maurice Latimer; Mr. and Mrs. C. Griffing, Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Liddell, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Nevins and Mrs. Kate Latimer.

THE LADIES' AID of the First Methodist Episcopal church will meet in a called business session Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. B. Abbey, 923 Fifth street. On account of the important business matters to be discussed it is hoped that all members of the Aid will be in attendance.

MR. AND MRS. W. T. YOUNGBLOOD of the Model addition have as their guests, Mrs. James Cavanaugh, Mrs. Ray Wilcox, and little Miss Ida Mable Leach.

Mrs. Wilcox and little Miss Leach will return to their home in Orange this week but Mrs. Cavanaugh will remain here with her daughter, Mrs. Youngblood, for an indefinite stay.

A CHARMING AFFAIR OF Monday afternoon was the entertainment of the Eileen Krow Society with Mrs. Sam Ransom Jr. as hostess at her home in the Model addition.

The affair assumed the form of a birthday celebration, yesterday being the birthday anniversaries of both Mrs. Ransom and Miss Agnes Watkeys. Two lovely birthday cakes formed the centerpiece of the dining table, which was attractively appointed in a motif of pink. The hostesses offered dainty ices and a salad during the evening.

Those enjoying this pleasing hospitality were Miss Hamlin Bos, Mrs. Milton Goss, Miss Viola Montz, Miss Virginia Monk, Mrs. Henry Gunther Jr., Miss Jane Owen, Mrs. A. C. Walker Jr., Miss Olga Owen, Mrs. Shirley Owen, Miss Agnes Watkeys, and Mrs. Sam Ransom Jr.

Mrs. Milton Goss will be the club's hostess next week at her home, 410 Nashville avenue.

Child Torn Away, War Veteran Ends Life Barren of Love

CHICAGO. March 13.—John Haas came home from the world war. Lillian, born while he was overseas, was 4 months old when he arrived.

The happiness of the reunion was brief. Within a short time the wife and mother suffered a mental collapse because of strain undergone during her husband's absence. She was sent to an asylum.

Haas placed the baby with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Alfred Schmal, and, working at his carpenter trade, saved enough to care for the child.

Haas visited the little girl and when Mrs. Schmal had stepped out of the house, the father and his daughter fled.

Haas took the child on a week's visit to Monroe, Wis., and then brought her to the home of a sister. Then Mrs. Schmal obtained a writ and the case of the child's custody was taken up Wednesday before Judge Fisher in circuit court. The testimony was brief. Mrs. Schmal insisted she was best fitted to care for Lillian. Haas, in broken, terrified sentences, cried out assurances that he had been a good father.

Judge Fisher gave Lillian to the grandmother.

An hour after the court's decision Haas reached his sister's home. A bit later a shot was heard. The father was dead, a bullet hole through his temple. The fingers of his left hand stiffened about a trinket which he and Lillian had selected for her doll.

Seagull Staff Plays Full of Pep Action

Interesting foreword comes concerning the two plays to be presented at Franklin school Friday evening by the Seagull staff; and according to those who witnessed last evening's rehearsal, a delightful evening of entertainment is promised.

For the past few weeks splendid rehearsals for the plays have been held under the direction of Miss Leona B. Dietz, dramatic instructor of the high school band.

Both the plays, "The Maker of Dreams," and "The Pot Boiler," are full of action and pep.

One attractive feature of the evening's entertainment will be the music furnished by the high school band.

The band is the pride of the whole school and promises some delightful music. Director Orin Lantz has announced that there will be several solo and special numbers.

NEW SCHOOL BOARD NAMED FOR ORANGE

ORANGE, TEXAS. March 13.—Death, removal and resignation of members on the Orange county school board so cut down the forces since the board's last meeting that speedily appointing of new members by the county commissioners resulted when the school board convened in session here Monday.

Walter D. Gill was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Rev. Marion Stephenson; J. P. Hillard was appointed to the place left vacant when Mrs. E. W. Brown moved out of the district; and Mrs. D. C. Bland was appointed to take the place of Captain Joe Weaver, resigned.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FACE

Says Element of Hydrochloric Acid is the Cause of Indigestion

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity, acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juice. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach results in diarrhea; and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like vinegar; and gas—carbon dioxide, methane, hydrogen, etc.—is formed in the stomach. These gases are very irritating to the mucous membranes of the stomach and intestines, causing pain, cramps, and flatulence.

Supported by their coach, Port Arthur's high school basketball club invaded the realms of Beaumont sportsdom again tonight to play the second game of the series for the Six City basketball title.

Vic Foley Quit Paint Brush For Roped Ring

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 13.—Just a year ago, Vic Foley was contentedly smearing paint on buildings and billboards. And now, with the Pacific Northwest bantam title all his own, coast fans are touring him to be figuring with Tremaine and Curtis before long.

Foley, who is 19, put on gloves at an amateur boxing show here to take the place of a boy who ran out on the promoters. His showing made him a certain raider next week—and soon thereafter he beat George Washington Lee, tough little Chinese who is the coast's trial horse, in a main event here. He hasn't been beaten or knocked off his feet.

The fight game is beginning to seriously interfere with Foley's painting. He's been smearing opponents all over the northwest, and is showing clever footwork as well as a kick in each fist.

STUFFY'S CASE

Did the St. Louis Browns make a mistake in permitting "Stuffy" McInnes to be waived out of the American League?

St. Louis lost the pennant in the American League last year by the narrow margin of one game. Unquestionably the Browns are one of the best clubs in the league. No team has a better chance for the 1923 pennant.

Old as it may sound, the one debatable spot in the Browns' infield is first base. At that position the team has the greatest player of all time—George Sisler. But, what about his condition?

BATTLE OF AGES IS HISTORY OF THE PAST

Thus it was on February 22, 1910, to be exact. As Wolastin, then in with the Michigan Wildcats, "won" the right to represent the world from Battling Nelson, the "Durable Dane," in one of the most gallant battles in the history of the combat arena.

That fight, which was scheduled to go nine rounds, was to be abrupt and in the first round when Nelson's second blow in the struggle as their men, bruised and battered eight, was staggering aimless about the ring.

The outcome was a huge surprise as Nelson had Wolastin almost out in the twenty-third round. In fact, the crowd had already started filing out of the enclosure as the supposedly "fatal ten" was being counted on the challenger.

But don't forget that the critics laughed when George Sisler was boomed as a duplicate of Tyrus Cobb.

Louis Fonseca, second baseman, is on Hornsby's trail in the opinion of Moran. Maybe yes and maybe no.

PAT PICKS FONSECA TO SUCCEED BIG PLAYER

When Patrick Moran talks, he usually says something worth while.

The latest from Moran is that the National League has another Rogers Hornsby. It is funny how rookies come in and are touted as duplicates of the stars of the profession.

But don't forget that the critics laughed when George Sisler was boomed as a duplicate of Tyrus Cobb.

Louis Fonseca, second baseman, is on Hornsby's trail in the opinion of Moran. Maybe yes and maybe no.

CURTAINS FOR 'PEP'

Recent press dispatches carried the announcement of the unconditional release of Ralph "Pep" Young by the Philadelphia Athletics. And thus, no doubt, passes another well known player from out the realm of major league baseball.

The going of Young marks the passing of one of the smartest men in the game. For Young was an intelligent player, played "heads up" baseball, and in his prime was considered one of the best second sackers in the majors.

PLAN TRIAL GAME

SEGUIN, Texas, March 13.—A seven-inning practice game between the Yankees and regulars was planned by Kid Gleason today to groom the Chicago White Sox squad for the opening of the spring exhibition series with the New York Giants at San Antonio Saturday. Three belated arrivals, Eddie Mafferty, and Hoyt Fleishman, rookie outfielders, and Harry McClellan, utility fielder, were present through stiff workouts.

MIKE JOHNNY ARRIVE

DETROIT, March 13.—Mike Kennedy and Johnny Michael have joined the training camp of the Boston Red Sox. Kennedy is expected to play both outfield and center, while Michael has been unable to get into the lineup because of injury.

Rained From Dead

Prodigious Strength Of South American Giant Beats Old Bill Brennan

His Face Bleeding and Dark With Savagery 'Wild Man' Firpo Crushes Footstool in Twelfth Round of Fight

NEW YORK, March 13.—With a right arm that hangs on him like a fence post and swings with the effect of a battering ram, Luis Angel Firpo, the giant of the Argentine, knocked out Bill Brennan, the former Chicago heavyweight, in the twelfth round last night.

It was a bout arranged to show what the South American giant could do and the verdict around the gathering places of the mite profession this morning was:

"That fellow's going nowhere."

Firpo acted in the last round much like the bulls that his fellow countrymen used to stab for pastime before he brought to them their first glimpse of the prize ring.

Facing defeat from a more crafty and a ring wiser opponent, with his balloon-like sides puffing and his eyes glassy under a crimson film, Firpo tore into Brennan and by brute force beat him to the door.

The right hand of the South American swung to the top of Brennan's head and started him downward. On its next trip around the same right caught Brennan under the jaw and he doubled up and went down. He was out for several minutes in his corner.

Firpo started away to a lead in early rounds. He did all the leading and was trying for a knockout.

Brennan, however, assumed the role of a catcher and allowed his huge opponent to do all the work.

Terrifically wild in his aim, Firpo did nothing but tire himself and in the fifth round when Brennan opened a bad gash over his eye, the South American looked "good night."

In the sixth he seemed to be looking for a hammock, but he stuck it out.

From the fifth on, the blood poured down into his eye, down his chin and off onto his chest, making him a picture of savagery. Only a very game man could have born up under the handicap.

Tex Rickard was all puffed up today.

"Another world's champion sure. The greatest prospect I have ever seen. Eight more months under proper schooling and he'll have the title," he said.

Rickard may have reasons for being over enthusiastic but everyone agrees that while he is not a champion by several thousand miles now, Firpo has great possibilities.

He has a game heart, immense size, prodigious strength, mentality above the ordinary everything but boxing skill. He can be taught to box when he possesses all those other qualifications. It may be for another year or so, and it may never be, but Senior Firpo is a potential champion.

Sticks to Vault to Make Name Famous

EMPIORIA, Kan., March 13—Earle Metkow, who recently set a new world's record for the indoor pole vault, is a bright and shining example of the advisability of sticking to one particular sport if you like it.

He achieved national fame when he declared the bar at 12 feet 10 inches at the Kansas City Athletic club's recent invitational meet. But he's been making the native Jayhawkers sit up and notice for several years.

'KID' GLEASON BARS NOTHING BUT UMPIRING

Not Even Afraid of Jack, He Says

Kid Gleason, who manages the Chicago White Sox with such great success, has dabbled in almost every department of the game.

"I have been a busker and a veteran. I have played and managed. I have coached and warmed the bench. I have been a scout and a mere spectator."

That is the way Gleason sums up his baseball career. As a matter of fact, Gleason has done everything that pertains to baseball except umpire.

Herman Pillette, a rookie pitcher for last year, made an unusually good record for his first year in fast company. Cobb looks for him to do fully as well.

Sylvester Johnson, the other young slasher who came to Detroit with Pillette in the trade sending Sammie Hale to the Coast League, is the authority for the story.

"Jack in 1918 the National League was looking for some new umpires," relates Klem. "President Heydler asked me if I knew anyone I could recommend.

"Why not give Kid Gleason a chance? He hasn't reported to the Chicago White Sox and would make a good umpire. Heydler agreed and I made a special trip to Philadelphia to talk it over with Gleason.

"Many thanks, but nothing doing," was Gleason's reply before I even finished my story.

"I will fight any one. I don't even bar Dempsey. I will take a whiz at any game of chance, but when it comes to umpiring, count me out. The odds are 1,000 to 1 against you getting an even break when you start and the odds grow bigger the longer you umpire."

Whereupon Klem took the train back to New York.

BILL DOAK, EXHIBIT A

Always cover first base.

That is a set rule in baseball that pitchers are supposed to follow when the batsman grounds to the first baseman.

Always back up first base on a throw from an infilder when there is no play at the plate.

Catchers are supposed to do that so as to be in a position to handle any overthrow of that base.

Pitchers and catchers in the major leagues follow out these two theories religiously. Hundreds of times it is a wasted effort as the play is perfectly executed.

Occasionally the pitcher and catcher slip up on the play, fail to go over, and invariably the boot proves costly.

Bill Doak, star pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, is offered an Exhibit A to prove the necessity of a pitcher always covering first base.

BETTER PLAYERS NOW, SAYS A VET OF EARLY B'BALL

New Mentor

Sluggers of Eighties Not Fielders

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 13.

At last! One old-timer baseball player who doesn't insist that they were better in the good old days.

"Teams of today are composed of brilliant all-round players," says Jerry Denby, first world series home-run hero. "In my time we had mushy fielders who couldn't hit a balloon, and husky slingers who were poor fielders."

"Nowadays, the teams play together on the diamond, everybody keyed up to high speed. We were always busy covering up the weaknesses of a brother player who could hit but not field."

Denny earned his niche in baseball's hall of immortals 20 years ago when he cracked out the first home run in a world series game.

NAME BATTING ORDER

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 13.

Manager Speaker announced his batting order today for the first game. Charley Janeslon will be lead off man, followed by Wamby, Speaker and Gusto in the cleanup position. Homer Summa comes next, then Joe Sewell, Ruth Lutze, the catcher, and pitcher, Judge Landis will attend the teams of that institution to 21 championships.

PANTHERS MEET OMAHA

FORT WORTH, March 13.

The Panthers will make their first appearance of the season Sunday when they take on the Omaha in an exhibition game. The members of the champion outfielders arriving in town slowly and it is probable the full squad won't be mobilized until the day of the game.

FANCY FIGURE IN CONTRACT WORKS HARDSHIP ON M'INNES

BOSTON, March 13.—The failure of a single American League club to refuse to waive first baseman "Stuffy" McInnes was a distinct surprise to sporting experts all over the country.

Perhaps the most surprised individual was McInnes himself.

"Can't understand it," said McInnes, when the question was put to him. "I am far from being through as a big leaguer. The only possible reason I can offer is the salary figure in my contract."

"When Cleveland bought me from Boston it was against my wishes.

I wanted to finish my big league career in my home town. I agreed to go to Cleveland only under a two-year contract that called for a big raise in salary."

"I cannot help think it was my contract rather than my lack of ability that caused me to be waived out of the league."

McInnes refused to name the figure in his contract, but it is understood it called for $11,000 for 1923.

McInnes hit over .300 last year. He is still a great fielder, despite the fact that he is slowing up. He should have no trouble getting a major league berth and is certain to help some team.

VETS VS. ROOKIES

LEESBURG, Fla., March 13.—The regulars and youngsters of the Phillips, will meet in a practice game again today. Seven innings will be played. In yesterday's exhibition the veterans won from the recruits 13 to 5.

FAMOUS BATTERIES PASS WITH MODERN STYLES

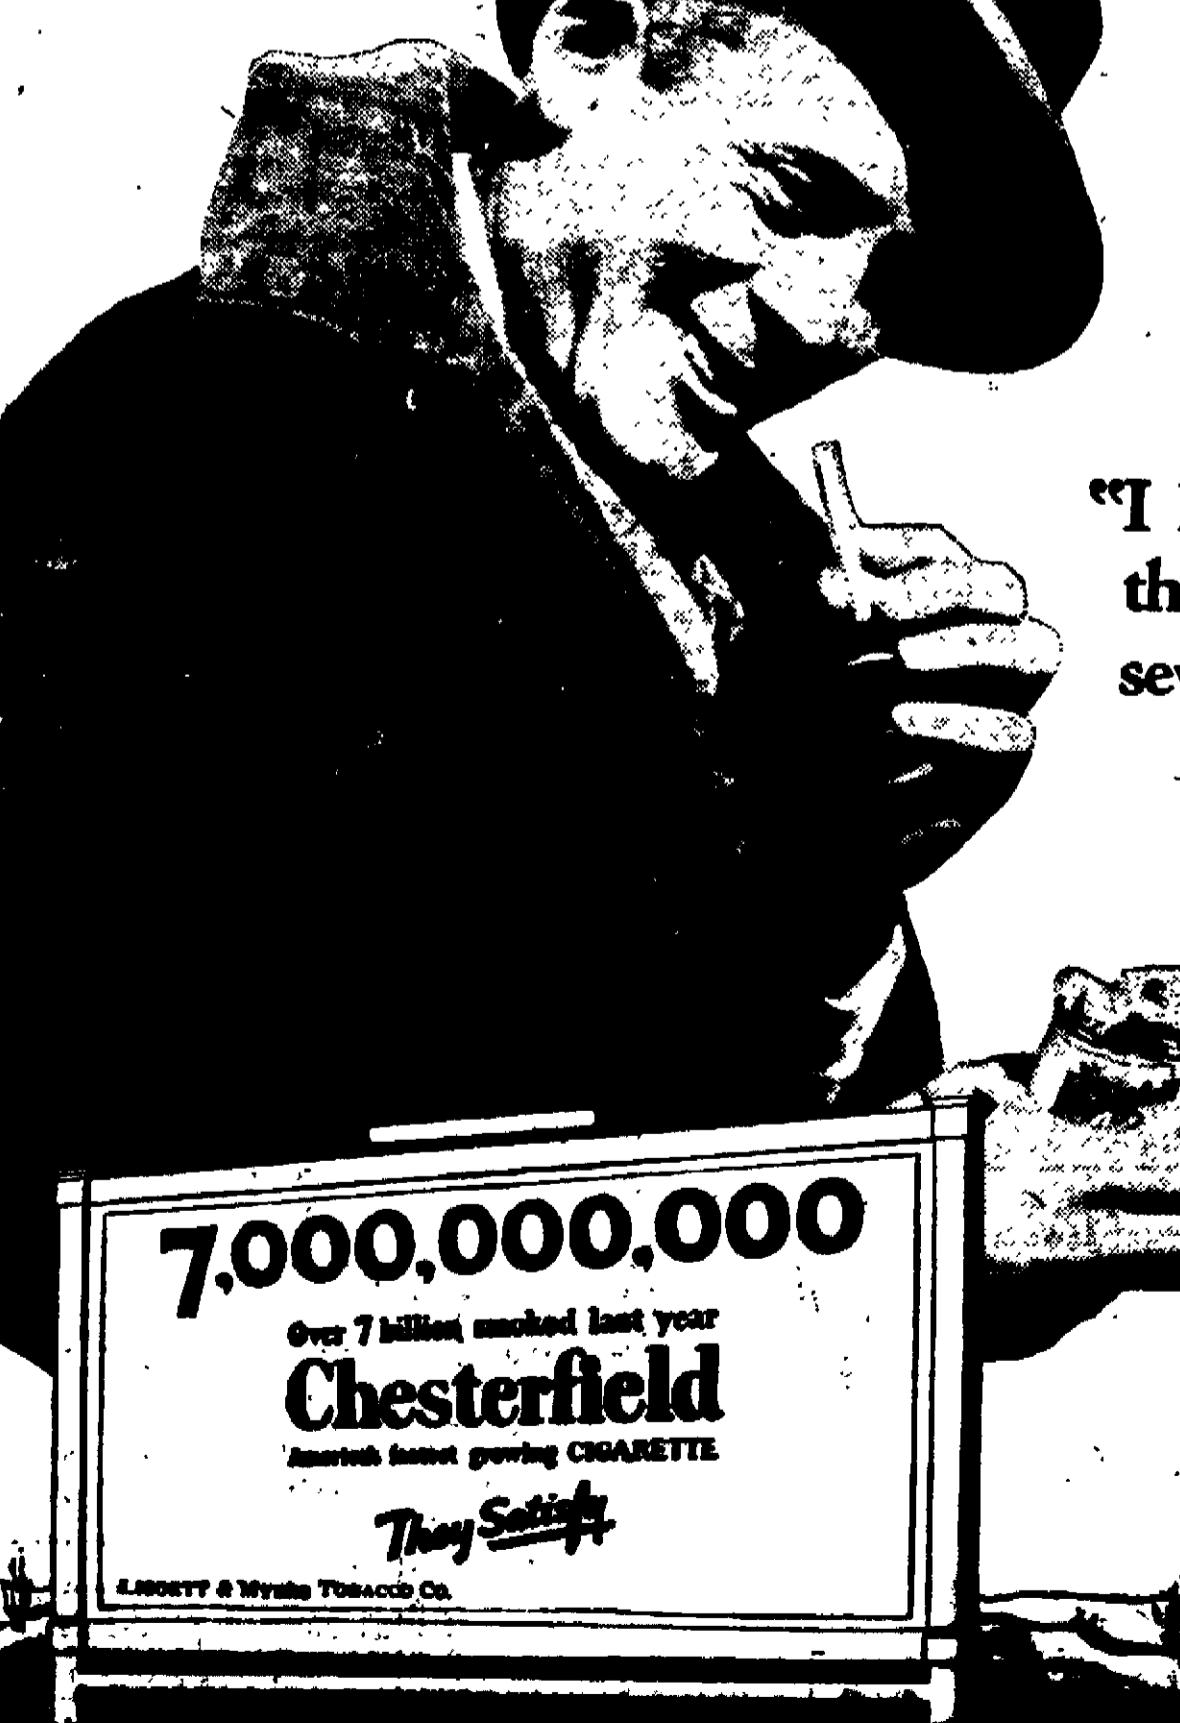

The present-day method of big league managers in having one catcher do practically all of the team's receiving during the season has to a certain extent done away with the famous batteries such as were known to the game some years ago.

Until George O'Brien caught 150 games for Pittsburgh in 1909—setting a record that still stands—divided work was the usual think. Now, Ray Schalk's record of 142 games caught for the White Sox last season tops very little the record of Perkins of the Senators.

TIGERS TAKE UP BATS

AUGUSTA, March 13.—The Detroit Tigers will participate in a batting orgy today during which Manager Cobb plans to use all his pitchers. Cobb is pleased with the work of Ray Francie, recently obtained from Washington, and believes the lad will win many games for him this season. So far pitchers haven't been permitted to throw curves.

MARKETS

WALL STREET JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, March 12.—Today's market was strong, and new highs on the exchanges in many individual issues confirmed the impression given by Monday's recovery that the stock market had corrected its decline, at least in part, instead of experiencing the abrupt drop which resulted last June and again in November from an especially rapid pace in discounting the market's recovery. The market closed higher.

No better measure of the fundamental soundness of the current speculative market than can be afforded than the fact that the market is able to employ this expedient instead of experiencing the abrupt drop which resulted last June and again in November from an especially rapid pace in discounting the market's recovery.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Looking up they saw an automobile with wings, roosting on a tree.

When the Twins left the queer mixed-up school, they heard a queer hooting sound overhead.

And looking up they saw an automobile with wings, roosting on a tree.

Of all the queer things they had seen in Mix-up Land, this was the queerest.

"Want a ride?" offered the automobile obligingly.

"Yes, thank you," answered Nancy. "It's quite safe."

"Safe?" laughed the automobile. "Why, I'm just as safe as a balloon with a hole in it. Nothing could be safer than that."

Nick laughed. "Mix-up Land is such a queer place we don't know what's safe and what isn't. Why do you fly instead of run?"

"Why does the sun shine at night, and the moon shines in the day time?" asked the queer automobile. "Why does anything do anything in Mix-up Land? Why do elephants chirp and sparrows trumpet, why do lions bark and dogs roar, why is the grass blue and sky green, why is—"

"Oh, oh, out cried Nancy, putting her hands over her ears. "Don't say anything more, please. We are getting so mixed up, we'll soon be Mix-Uppers ourselves."

The automobile rattled its bolts.

"Well, you asked me, so I was just telling you," it answered. "But I'm not so crazy as I look. Automobiles that fly have some advantage over automobiles that roll on the ground. Do you still wish to get to Jack Straw's house on top of the steeple?"

"Yes, yes, yes!" cried both Twins at once. "We want to put him out and put King Even-Steven in."

"Then climb up and jump in," said the automobile. "Perhaps if you guide me right, I can run into it and wreck it."

With shouts of glee, in scrambled the Twins, and away flew the automobile.

Mix-up Land looked like a game of a hundred colors spread out below.

The perplexing part about the scattered letters shown above, is that the letter "W" is not only out of its proper place but it also is upside down, so that it appears as an "M". Turn it right side up and you will have no difficulty in forming a word. In fact you will wonder at the simplicity of the problem!
